"We answered the Italian ultimatum in a conciliatory tone, implying a peaceful solution. You know under what conditions Italy declared war, and how host littles began, contrary to the rules of international law. By what conditions Italy declared war, and how host littles began, contrary to the rules of international law. By this fact we are at liberty to take all measures necessitated by a state of war, quite apart from military operations strictly speaking. But while reserving for herself this right, Turkey holds the conviction that a state of war can be avoided. Thus, she addresses herself to the powers and postpones recourse to arms.

"In acting thus the Ottoman government is going contrary to the legitimate sentiments of the Turkish people, and hopes that the powers will give a favorable answer to her request."

and personal property Chanler pos-sesses, preventing the transfer of any of it to Cavalieri despite the anteof it to Cavalleri despite the ante-nuptial agreement. These injunctions are still effective. The first Mrs. Chan-ler held that that transaction was a fraud in that it took out of Chanler's power the means to pay her an in-come of $10,000 a year and her two daughters by him the sum of $5,000 a year each, as he agreed to do before she divorced him.

one of Mr. Arris's employes said that his negotiations had been successful. The lawyer has been a busy man since his return. He has been in consultation with his client several times. He has also kept in touch with W. Russell Osborn, Cavalleri's American attorney, and with Frederick N. Watriss, counsel for Mrs. Julia Chamberlain Chanler, "Sherlif Bob." first wife.

It can be stated positively that Mr. Watriss will take no legal steps to prevent the payment of sum not exceeding $100,000 in lieu of all Cavalleri's claims upon Chanler. Mr. Watriss holds that there will be enough Chanler income and property left after such payment to satisfy his client's claims upon him.

Mr. Osborn declined to deny or offirm that there had been a settlement. It is known, however, that he has been in communication with the diva during Mr. Harris's stay abroad and since the Cavalleri Bitterly Disappointed.
